Higher Education Experience

Over the last six years, I have served as the Campus Minister at College of the Ozarks. My responsibilities support the Christian mission of the College by facilitating leadership development, ethical maturation, character formation, coordinating and designing our service and international mission trip program, organizing and teaching within our chapel program, and instructing within the Biblical and Theological Studies, Sociology and Family Studies, and Philosophy and Religion departments on our campus. Most recently, I also assumed the role of Director of the Institutional Quality Initiative. In this role, I am strategically leading a longitudinal study that surveys the character development of 1500 college students. This assessment includes programming development, student character learning outcomes development, strategic planning, assessment module development, educational technology implementation, and inter-departmental coordination. Our goal through this initiative is provide a holistic picture of the student maturation through five character qualities: Wisdom, Hope, Humility, Courage, and Citizenship.
